LOOKING OVER GLASSES.

Did you ever see a person look over their glasses when they wanted to see something distinctly. This is correct in cases of old people who should wear bifocal lenses, but in young people there is something wrong with the glasses, for if they improved a person's vision the person wearing them would not look over them. When I make glasses they improve the vision, fit the classes they improve the vision, fit the

COTTON.

Women at Luncheon in Association Rooms Get a Coat of Apricots with plastering, and pies cov-Apricots with plastering, and pies covered with lime were two of the dessert dishes the Y. W. C. A. did not serve at the business women's luncheon today. Just as the serving trays and tables were filled for the noon hour rush and the early comers were being served, there was a ripping sound like a dress skirt that had been rudely stepped upon, a crash and down came some plaster from the ceiling. A cross section of the ceiling on the serving room of the Y. W. C. A. suite selected a most inopportune time

Mrs. Ralph Gihon, Mrs. Marian, Miss Provost and Miss Helen Stafford were standing directly under the second sec-tion and an immediate shampoo was in order, as their hair was filled with the powdered lime from the plastering.

POSTAL SAVINGS BANKS ARE NOT BEST, FORUM DECIDES
At the Y. M. C. A. forum meeting
Safurday night the postal savings bank proposition came up for argument. H.
W. Browder talked for it and Edgar Kayser argued against it, with the re-sul; that Mr. Kayser received the de-cision of five judges. Perhaps he won the argument because he is a banker

MARY ELIZABETH MILLS. Mrs. Mary Elizabeth Mills, 62 years of age, died Sunday morning at the resi-dence of her daughter, Mrs. C. O. Horner, 1137 Nevada street. Mrs. Mills was widow of Theodore B. Mills. Funeral services were held today at the chapel of Nagley & Kaster and later at the Church of the Immaculate Conception
